

National Association of Vision Professionals

You are invited to join

What is NAVP?

The National Association of Vision Professionals (NAVP) was established in May 1978 as an organization concerned with prevention, detection, and follow-up of vision services for pre-school and school age children and adults.

Objectives

Specifically, its primary objectives are:

1. To serve as a forum for ideas on vision conservation and eye health of all people.
2. To provide leadership and planning to improve and expand vision conservation and eye health programs nationally.
3. To coordinate and cooperate with agencies and groups responsible for the provision of services aimed at vision conservation and eye health.
4. To develop and promote educational programs for the public in vision conservation, eye safety and eye health.
5. To promote the development of training programs for individuals preparing for careers in the field of vision conservation and eye health.
6. To develop professional standard for employment in the field.

Membership Eligibility

A person whose main task is vision-related is eligible for membership in NAVP. Ophthalmologists, optometrists, vision teachers, nurses, industrial safety personnel, screening technicians, para-professionals, volunteers and others concerned with vision health may be members.

Annual Conferences

A conference is held in the US annually. The 2007 conference will be in Chicago, IL.

Each conference is hosted by a member agency in that member's state. This provides individuality in conference planning and enables attendees to hear a variety of speakers on a wide range of topics concerning vision. These conferences have provided the opportunity to build a vision network that did not exist prior to 1978.
